FOREWORD

Dreams of the past have been fulfilled. The peerless institution long cherished by students, alumni, and faculty has become a living reality, and Arkansas State College is now existent in all its fullness. The loss of the Administration Building was only a small obstacle to be overcome, and from those ruins shall rise the initial symbol of our fondest hopes—the Greater Arkansas State which is to come in all its magnificence and splendor.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Memories only of the old Main Building remain, but from its ashes a new and finer structure is rising, so from the old Junior College there is rising a new and still finer institution for the service of the young men and young women of Arkansas. The new Senior College with its richer and more abundant library and laboratory facilities will develop traditions and ideals which will be reflected in the lives of those, her children, who contribute their share to the development of the new Alma Mater. The opportunities for service which now present themselves are a sacred obligation which challenges alumni, students, faculty, and fathers and mothers to carry on to the end that every boy and girl may, if he desires, secure a senior college education.

May the vision, patience, and sympathetic understanding be ours that future generations may secure the blessing of a complete realization of this trust.

CLASSES

SENIORS

HARRIET KIBLER

Harriet Kibler enrolled at Arkansas State College last fall for the first time since 1915, when she was a member of the Sophomore Class of the Training School.

During her years of absence from the campus, Miss Kibler has had quite a varied career as both student and teacher.

She is a member of the Debating Club, the Teacher Training Club, and the Y. W. C. A. She also takes an active interest in other student activities.

Miss Kibler is majoring in English and minoring in social sciences. She also is interested in Mathematics and Chemistry.

CLEVELAND KOHONKE

Cleveland Kohonke, blond and tall, began his career at Arkansas State in 1922 when he enrolled in the eighth grade class. He continued his work here until he graduated from the Junior College in the spring of '29.

Last year Cleveland was a junior at the University of Arkansas. He was an active member of the Kappa Kappa Psi band fraternity and of the Phi Nu Eta dormitory club.

His interests are largely centered upon engineering and athletics. He is a member of the Engineering Club, plays in the band, and is a very valuable track man.

MAE LOVE

Mae Love, attractive Senior of Arkansas State College, was graduated from the Junior College department in 1929.

Last year Miss Love attended the University of Arkansas, and pledged the Delta Delta Delta Sorority. She also took an active part in other social activities.

Miss Love is enrolled in the Arts and Science Department. Her artistic ability has aided her to master a great deal of creative work and much credit is due her for her accomplishments in this field.

We are proud to have the honor and privilege of representing the first class in the organization of the new senior college of Arkansas State.

Most of the members of our class are students who have begun their college careers here and who are vitally interested in the school and its activities. This is shown by the fact that many of the student leaders are included in our group.

In addition to furnishing leaders, the class has offered many interested and reliable participants in every phase of extra-curricular work. From a scholastic standpoint, the class also ranks high, with three of the charter members of Phi Theta Kappa, national honorary fraternity, included on our roll. One of these first members, Margaret Winters, was one of the two students in school to achieve a perfect A average last year.

The Junior-Senior organization holds another and very unique record—the matrimonial championship of the institution. Approximately one-fifth of the members have married since the beginning of the school year.

We are members of the Senior class at an opportune time. The task of making Arkansas State a standard senior institution has just begun. Customs and traditions must be established, and in being this first class we have a trust. We must lay the foundation of these traditions, and inspire our successors to carry them on.

We have given our loyalty, whole-heartedly, to our Alma Mater, and it is our hope that those who follow us will endeavor to do even more for the greater Arkansas State of the future.

THE SENIOR COLLEGE

Soon after the completion of school last year, President Kays and the Board of Trustees realized the need of a senior college in Northeastern Arkansas. With no senior college within a radius of seventy-five miles, it was an assured fact that many of the young people of this section, who desired a four-year college education, would be unable to secure it.

As soon as the Board had fully decided to take the step, President Kays conferred with the secretary of the North Central Association of Schools and Colleges to find out the requirements that should be met before the department was organized.

The Association was very encouraging, when asked of the possibilities of an early admission after the required two years of probation. With this encouragement, President Kays returned to the college and started to work.

Laboratories had to be enlarged and many more volumes were added to our library. Work in both of these lines was emphasized, and our former Junior College plant was transformed into that of a standard four-year college.

To meet the need of more classrooms for the added work, the entire high school department was moved from the college administration building into the Armory. New classroom and administrative material was secured to meet the needs, and the drive for a larger student body was begun.

A new form of catalogue was issued, giving details of the new courses that would be offered, and containing attractive views of the campus and buildings. Every student who had graduated from the Junior College Department in days gone by was approached on the subject of returning to take the new work.

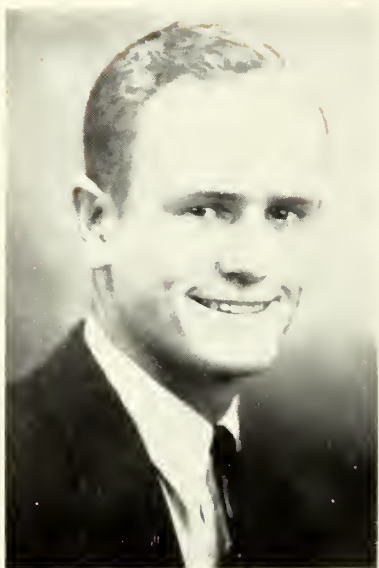

Organization of the faculty was also necessary, with more teachers needed to meet the additional courses, and instructors of higher degrees to fill the requirements set by the North Central Association. Consequently, when the new session was opened, the Aggie faculty contained six Doctors of Philosophy.

New students and old answered the call to enroll in the new division of the college. Many former students and a number of new students transferring from other colleges entered the Greater Arkansas State College on September 1, 1930.

And now that slogan is ours—"The Only State Supported Senior College in Northeastern Arkansas."

SOPHOMORES

OFFICERS

John R. Halpin.....	President
Charles Magee.....	Vice-President
Alfred Knox.....	Secretary-Treasurer

September first of last year found a large class of young men and women ready for a second year of college work at Arkansas State. Old pals met again, looked over the Freshmen, and settled down to business. Only a few weeks had passed when unprecedented things began to pop on the Aggie campus. We were to have college dances; the trustees had authorized such if certain regulations were complied with. The Sophs promptly set to work, and committees were appointed. All eyes turned toward the big Sophomore Dance, the first social event of the year. The Recreation Hall was the scene of the joyous mix-up, and the new regime at Arkansas State was duly christened.

This has been a very successful year for the Sophomores. Many of our number have held responsible positions in extra-curricular activities and athletics, reflecting glory to themselves and to their class. Others have attained high scholastic standings, and have been elected to Phi Theta Kappa, national honor fraternity.

Now that we are parting, we feel a little heartache when we think of the happy hours spent with our friends and buddies. Next year some of them will be scattered far and wide, and we wish them the best of luck, regretting that they will not be back with us again. We who are to continue our education here should bring back new members to our midst, and make the Junior Class of '32 the best ever.

And now, students and instructors, the Sophomores bid you a fond good-bye, hoping to be with you again in the near future.

FRESHMEN

OFFICERS

Lelon Darr.....	President
Mary Stack.....	Vice-President
Alantha Lou Rains....	Secretary-Treasurer
Ruth Sitzman.....	Reporter

Our Freshman year in college is almost gone. Have we accomplished something really worthwhile? Most of us can answer in the affirmative, for our initial entrance into college life has given us worlds of experience. Too, we have established warm friendships with our instructors and fellow students. So our leave taking will be a sad occasion, for we hate to depart from these friends and instructors with whom we have associated during the past year.

Perhaps we have overlooked some very important things this year, or made numerous mistakes which we should not have made. If such we have, let us overlook these mistakes and strive to see that they do not occur again. Because of such opposition we should struggle just a little harder, pushing onward to the better things in life.

Finally, let me say that it has certainly been a pleasure for me to serve as President of the Freshman class of 1931. There have probably been many things that I have overlooked or left undone, but I assure you that such was entirely unintentional. I wish to express my highest appreciation and respect to Mr. Hollard, our sponsor, who has given much of his time in the interest of our class. I also want to thank each of you for your splendid co-operation in helping to make our Freshman year a success. May I wish you success and happiness in everything you undertake, and I sincerely hope that all of you will return next year to fill your part as upper classmen.

Sincerely,

Lelon Darr.

THE JUNIOR COLLEGE

Despite the fact that the Senior College has been organized and is functioning smoothly, the Junior College Division continues to exist in a better condition than ever before.

When the college was organized in 1910, as the State Agricultural School, Junior College work was offered in Home Economics and Agriculture. With these two courses offered, the school grew and gained a wide reputation until it was necessary to add other needed courses.

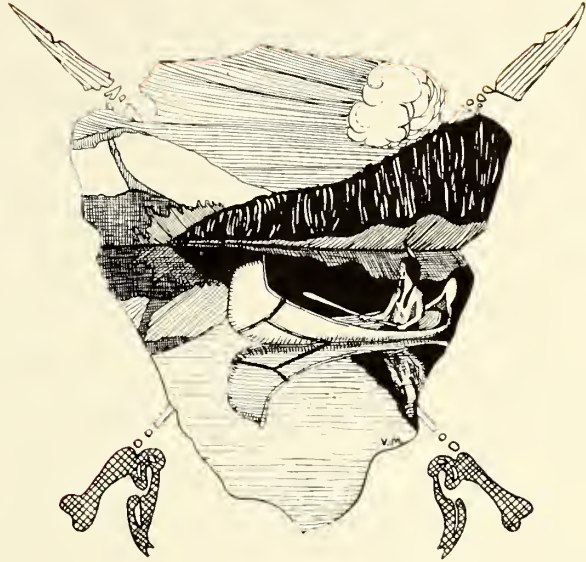

Pre medical work was added to the school at the opening of the 1922 session. This course in its high state of perfection has gained many students for the college, and has progressed rapidly since its organization.

In 1924 the curriculum was more than doubled by the addition of courses in Engineering, Education, and Arts and Sciences. The Engineering Building was erected to afford space for the Engineering Department, and the Armory was built, not only as quarters for the National Guard Unit but as a training school to be used in the development of teachers.

Reaching a virtual acme of Junior College perfection, Arkansas State was admitted to the North Central Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges in 1926. There was no stopping at this milestone, however, for there has been a continuous improvement since that time in both faculty and equipment. Full courses are now offered in Agriculture, Home Economics, Engineering, Pre-Medical, Teacher-Training, Pre-Business, Pre-Law, Music, and Art.

While the college has been improving in its scholastic standing, it has also been steadily rising as a bright star in the athletic firmament. Athletic teams of several large senior institutions have been met and conquered by those of our own Junior College.

As the Junior College fades into the background and the Senior College predominates, we are looking forward to a rapid growth unparalleled in the history of Arkansas collegiate institutions.

WILL ROGERS

Throughout the recent period of depression, a nationally known figure was willing to sacrifice his time, money, and health in an effort to aid the sufferers. This "good Samaritan" was Will Rogers, humorous lecturer and movie star, who will forever linger dearly in the minds of the citizens of the stricken area.

Rogers, accompanied by Captain Frank Hawks, nationally known speed aviator, appeared at the State College Armory on Wednesday, February eleventh. With his ceaseless repertoire of comment on social and political conditions, he proved himself as good an entertainer as he is a philosopher and Democrat.

The largest crowd ever to assemble in the large Armory greeted the famous pair when they appeared to raise funds for the Craighead County Red Cross. The entertainment attracted a full house, with many of the seats selling for two, three, and five dollars.

The local National Guard unit turned in a brilliant performance in the varied roles of bodyguards, ushers, money-guards, and telegraph boys. Rogers was escorted into the auditorium by a special squad of men, but immediately on entering the room, he broke from the formation and rushed to the stage to begin pouring forth that magic "line" of his. Hawks appeared later on the program, having been left at Paragould to hold the crowd at bay, while the humorist proceeded to Jonesboro.

Football, agriculture, Calvin Coolidge, tenant-farming, aviation, the Russian situation, and golf were a few of the objects of Roger's marvelous humor. Hawks added a great store of aeronautical jokes, and the State College Band functioned perfectly to climax the occasion.

An added feature of the event was a beauty contest sponsored by local business men. Miss Sadie Moon, of Trumann, was triumphant in this contest which Rogers refused to judge, casting the job over to Captain Hawks. Arkansas State College was represented in this contest by Miss Virginia Mitchell of McCrory.

So Mr. Rogers has come and gone, leaving with us the reminiscences of a happy hour, and causing us to appreciate more fully the wonderful humanitarianism which he has displayed throughout the crisis.

ATHLETICS

COACHES

Coach
Herbert B. Schwartz

The Notre Dame system of Knute Rockne, with which "Aggie" fights all her gridiron battles, was brought to our campus in 1923 by Herbert B. Schwartz. Coach Schwartz obtained his collegiate athletic experience at Valparaiso University, where he obtained a Ph.G. degree in 1920. After his graduation from Valparaiso, Schwartz gained some repute as a professional baseball player. He was also an instructor at Valparaiso for a short while. In 1923 he came to Arkansas State as instructor in chemistry, and as a member of the coaching staff. During his years here he has endeavored, in the summer months, to acquire the latest methods and technique of the nation's outstanding coaches, attending summer courses at Notre Dame in 1927 and 1930, the University of Michigan in 1928, and Minnesota Teachers' college in 1929.

Assistant Coach
Jim J. White

Assistant Coach Jim White came to Arkansas State direct from Mississippi A. & M. College, where he was an outstanding tackle on the "Aggies" teams of 1928 and 1929. Before going to Mississippi, Coach White was a linesman of note for the Arkansas Tech teams of the four years preceding. He has been greatly responsible for the push and drive in the Indians line this season.

White was also a weight-man on the track teams of the two colleges which he attended and transferred his knowledge in this field to the Indian track squad of 1931.

CHEER LEADERS

When Arkansas State College's athletic teams went into each encounter during the current season, they were greeted by the yelling of the student-body led by three extremely capable "pep-squad" leaders. The most outstanding display of pep for the year was, probably, the final basketball game of the season in which the Indians met defeat at the hands of the West Tennessee Teachers' College. The gym was crowded, and every student cheered his best until after the final whistle had blown, and then we gave a big "Fifteen—INDIANS" to top off the season.

"Runt" McKay came to Arkansas State from Jonesboro with a long career as a cheer leader that reaches well back into his junior high school days. Roy is a sophomore now, and during his freshman year he was an assistant to "Hoot" Gibson, that cowboy yell-leader, who was in charge while the Five Hundred Horsemen were holding sway on the fields of Arkansas State.

Bertram Lineback is a first year student at Aggie, coming from Brinkley, where she was yell-leader in her high school days. Bert proved a big help with the yelling during the football season.

Benton Hogue, otherwise known as "Peter Murphy" grew up with Aggie. Last year he attended Marked Tree High School, where he was yell-leader. He has been a big figure in the pep created at the season's athletic events, especially in keeping the spirits high among the men of the dormitory.

ARKANSAS STATE 0—CARUTHERSVILLE 0

Amid the cheering of students and fans, the Arkansas State College Indians began their 1931 season on Kays Field, matching wits and brawn with the Blue Jays of Caruthersville Junior College. The Indians fought play for play and down for down with a team which had given them the bitter drugs of defeat the previous season. At one time victory flashed upon the screen, only to be withdrawn by a penalty for backfield motion. The ball had been advanced against the forward wall of the visitors until it neared the thirty-five yard line. Rees, the big Arkansas back, tossed a neat pass to Winters, who carried the pigskin over for a touchdown. The motion of the backfield changed an apparent Indian victory to a scoreless tie. Rees and Winter starred in the Arkansas backfield, while Hinson and Keller did good work in the line.

ARKANSAS STATE 0—HENDRIX-HENDERSON 19

One week after the Indians had met Caruthersville, they went on the rampage against the biggest and best pigskin toting squad of the year, the Warriors of Hendrix-Henderson. It was indeed a treat to the local fans to see the Indians break through time after time for long gains against the strong defense of the Hendrix-Henderson eleven. Contrary to existing opinion, they out ran, out passed, and out kicked the visitors through the major part of the game. Sams and Winters gained consistently when called upon, but the visitors were not to be outdone. They scored each of the three times that they were able to gain ground, giving the Indians a numerical defeat but a moral victory.

ARKANSAS STATE 7—U. T. JUNIORS 7

The Indians now tied up on foreign soil, with the U. T. Juniors as their opponents. Against a team which was doped to beat them by at least three touchdowns, the Aggie squad turned the game into a riot for themselves. The Jonesboro boys started a forward drive of 72 yards and reached the goal in exactly six plays. Cotner and Sams carried the ball for a registration of ten first downs while the foreigners could achieve a mere total of four white stripes. Several costly fumbles inside the ten-yard line prevented the Indians from making another marker.

ARKANSAS STATE 0—STATE TEACHERS 6

A lucky break defeated the Indians when they met the State Teachers aggregation on the local gridiron. After completely outclassing the visitors the entire game, the home team lost by a freak pass intercepted by a visiting back who ran three-fourths of the distance of the field for a marker. Notwithstanding the fact that the Aggie men continually threatened to score through every minute of the tilt, no more points were tallied. Hughey made his first appearance of the year, and ripped off timely gains around the extreme ends of the opposing team. Sams did his bit by crashing the line for yardage which sometimes totaled a sixth of the distance of the field. Taking facts into consideration, the State College team should have had the glory of victory instead of untimely defeat.

ARKANSAS STATE 13—WEST TENNESSEE TEACHERS 6

The Indians were beginning to get "riled up," so they whammed away, and placed West Tennessee Teachers on the short end of a 13-6 score. The team functioned like a top and stacked up the sweetest victory of the season. Ted Cotner gave an example of leather lugging, and time and again trotted off with the ball for some mighty nice gains. Rees appeared in the role of a triple threat man, with his passes at the height of perfection. Carroll Weaver, though injured, showed his mettle and wanted to finish the remaining part of the game.

ARKANSAS STATE 0—MONTICELLO 0

The season of games for the home grounds was cut short on Armistice Day. Donned in their mud pants and scarlet robes, the Indians lived up to their motto, "the best equipped team in the state." Monticello had the home boys outweighed but certainly not outplayed. Due to the thick blanket of mud the usual fast teams of both sides were slowed up except for a break made by Loche of the visiting team. The ambitious fellow got it into his head that he should go somewhere, but Winters changed his mind for him after some thirty-five yards. Notwithstanding several long passes and good runs, the final gun ended the tilt with the decision still in doubt as to the winner, for neither team had scored.

ARKANSAS STATE 0—MAGNOLIA 19

After tying Monticello, the squad journeyed to Magnolia to try for the Little Three championship. They made a valiant attempt but could not hold the charging backs of the Magnolia eleven. Weaver played a great defensive game, stopping many plays which would have netted the Magnolia eleven large gains. Wrenn played well in the Arkansas State line.

ARKANSAS STATE 0—ARKANSAS COLLEGE 27

The Indians played hard against the Arkansas College Panthers, but a fatal third quarter cost them a defeat of 27-0. Fiser and Schlater opened up on the Aggie line in this period, and scored three of their four touchdowns at this time. When the fourth period rolled around, the Indian line again dug their toes into the turf and held. McDaniel and Hendrix played a great defensive game.

THE SQUAD

TRACK

In the spring of 1930 the ancient but always popular sport of track reigned at Arkansas State College as it had never done before. The team was backed by the "backingest" student body in the state, and won all three of the contests in easy style.

The beginning of the season found the team at Batesville in a meet with Arkansas College. The Indians walked off with twelve first places, and many seconds and thirds added to the score made a total of $75\frac{1}{2}$ points to $56\frac{1}{2}$ for the Panthers. Captain Bogan startled the fans by alone totaling a score of three first places, and Green came right along to account for three other firsts. Pee Wee Little hit the tape twice for first places, and Joe Cluck also placed first in his event.

Little

Hornberger

Cluck

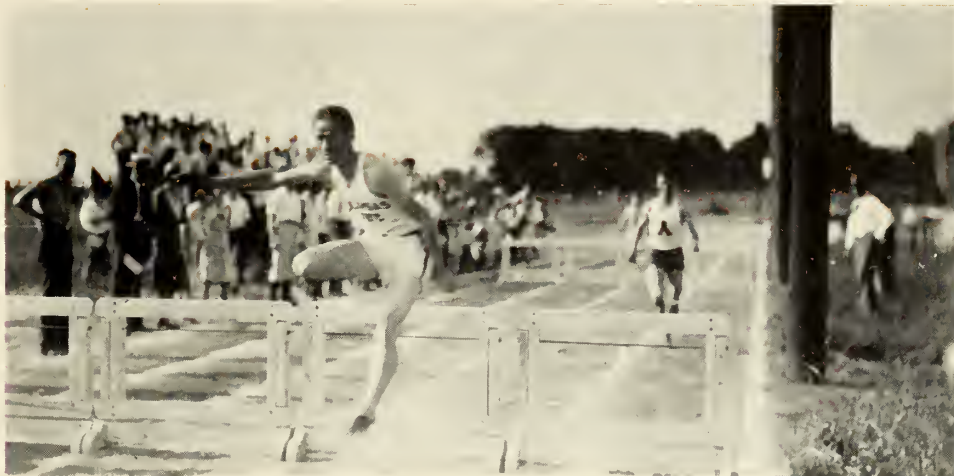

For the second meet of the season, the Indians trotted over the river to combat the Union University Bulldogs at Jackson, Tenn. Aided by the fine work of Bogan and Green, the team again left their opponents rather downcast. The final verdict was that Arkansas State had piled up an 85 point score, while Union University had struggled along with only 46 markers. Bogan was again high point man with three first places, and Green was close behind with 13 counters to his credit. Cluck, Little, Hogan, and Lamb also registered firsts.

Weaver

Hendrix

Osborne

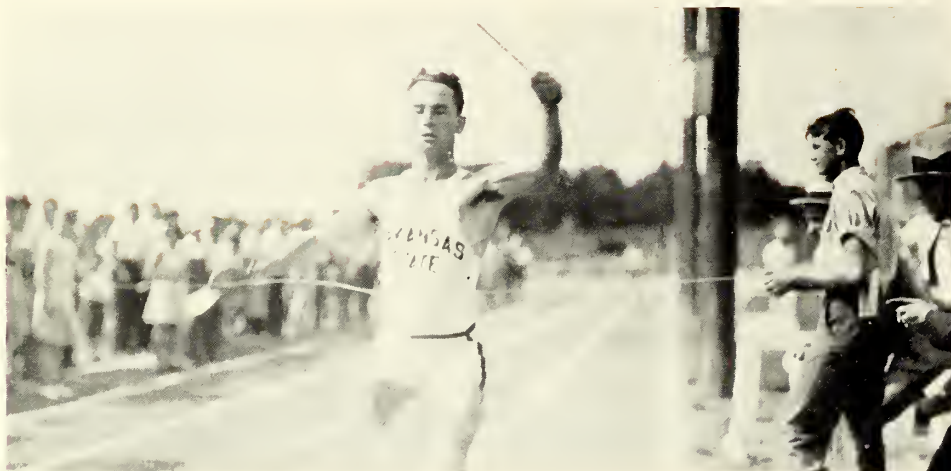

The third meet appeared on the home circle with the Monticello Boll-weevils. In this little affair the Indians coasted along for a sweeping victory of 83 points. Bogan ran up first places in the low and high hurdles as well as in the 440-yard dash. Little stretched his short legs and registered first places in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Harold Keller was the outstanding man of the day, in that he placed in more events than any other man on the field. Keller placed in the 440-yard dash, the 880 yard relay, the 220-yard dash, the mile relay. Cluck, Lamb, Hornberger, Meredith, and Weaver also added first places to the Indian score.

Echols

Lamb

Keller

Just before the Monticello tilt, the Indians tried their luck at the state meet. Ten husky fellows packed their grips and headed for fame on the oval. Little placed second in the 100-yard dash; Cluck placed second in the mile, and Bogan placed third in the low hurdles. Keller, Hornberger, Osborne, and Little also added a third place in the medley relay. The team netted a total of ten points.

Dawson

Hogan

Meredith

The letter men for 1930 were: Little, R. Bogan, Hornberger, H. Bogan, G. Lamb, Hendrix, J. Lamb, Osborne, Keller, Singleterry, Dawson, Meredith, Cluck, Hague, Echols, Hogan, and Weaver.

Harold Little is the captain for the coming season. Pee Wee is the fastest track man who has ever worn Arkansas State colors, and even more is expected of him than he did last season. He placed second in the state in the century dash, and he looks good for a first this year. Joe Hornberger, veteran distance man, is sub-captain. Under such guidance the Indian squad should equal their perfect record of 1930.

BASKETBALL

The Arkansas State Indians opened a basketball season, the success of which can be appreciated only by the student body, by defeating the Poinsett Community Club of Trumann in two games by the scores of 14-9 and 40-14. Homer Cox, another product of Bono, was the outstanding star of these encounters.

Immediately after the two pre-season games, the following Schwartzmen made the annual Northern trip—Hendrix, Thornton, Keller, Lamb, Cox, McDaniel, Weaver and Warren. Many consider the Indians' Northern trip of this season as the most successful in the history of the jaunt.

Close scores featured each of the games played. The dedication game on the first night was lost to the Cape Girardeau Teachers in their new gym by the score of 36-25. Against Southern Illinois Normal, the following night, the Indians came within striking distance on the short end of a 22-20 score. In the next game, Sparks College was able to administer a 27-23 defeat to the State College five. Milliken University then eked out a 27-24 victory in the game at Decatur. Fast playing and accurate passing in the next game gave the boys from home a 18-17 victory over the fast Concordia College team of St. Louis. In the last two games of the trip, our team was defeated 40-21 by North Central College, and 48-21 by Loyola University of Chicago.

Hendrix

Keller

McDaniel

In the first game after the Christmas holidays the Indians journeyed to Memphis and were defeated by the West Tennessee Teachers. Following this defeat at the hands of the Tennessee five, Arkansas College came to Jonesboro and went back with a 38-34 victory, the game being featured by Capt. Hendrix's scoring of 19 points. The following week we journeyed to Batesville and defeated the same team 37-14 on their own court. On the return from Batesville, the Poinsett Community Club was again defeated to the tune of 42-22.

The Indians then went into training for the annual Southern trip with hopes of bringing back the State Championship. These hopes met disaster, however, when Henderson State Teachers defeated us in the first two games of the trip with the scores of 44-40 and 41-32. Journeying on to Conway, the State Teachers' Bears took our count with scores of 33-20 in two games. Following the games at Conway, our men went over to Little Rock and defeated the State Hospital quintet of that city by the score of 35-24. The boys then went south and lost hopes for the Little Big Three Championship at the hands of the Magnolia A. & M. aggregation who set us down with scores of 47-34 and 41-31. Hendrix, Thornton, and Cox were the Arkansas State stars on the Southern trip.

Thornton

Lamb

Weaver

Returning from the Southern trip, the team prepared for the Monticello Aggies, who appeared here in two games to be defeated by the rejuvenated Indians by the scores of 46-30 and 42-30. Hosea McDaniel proved his ability as a guard and as a court-general in these two games.

The season came to an end in a storm of pep from the student body who stood strongly behind the Indian team as they were administered a 45-21 defeat at the hands of the West Tennessee Teachers of Memphis.

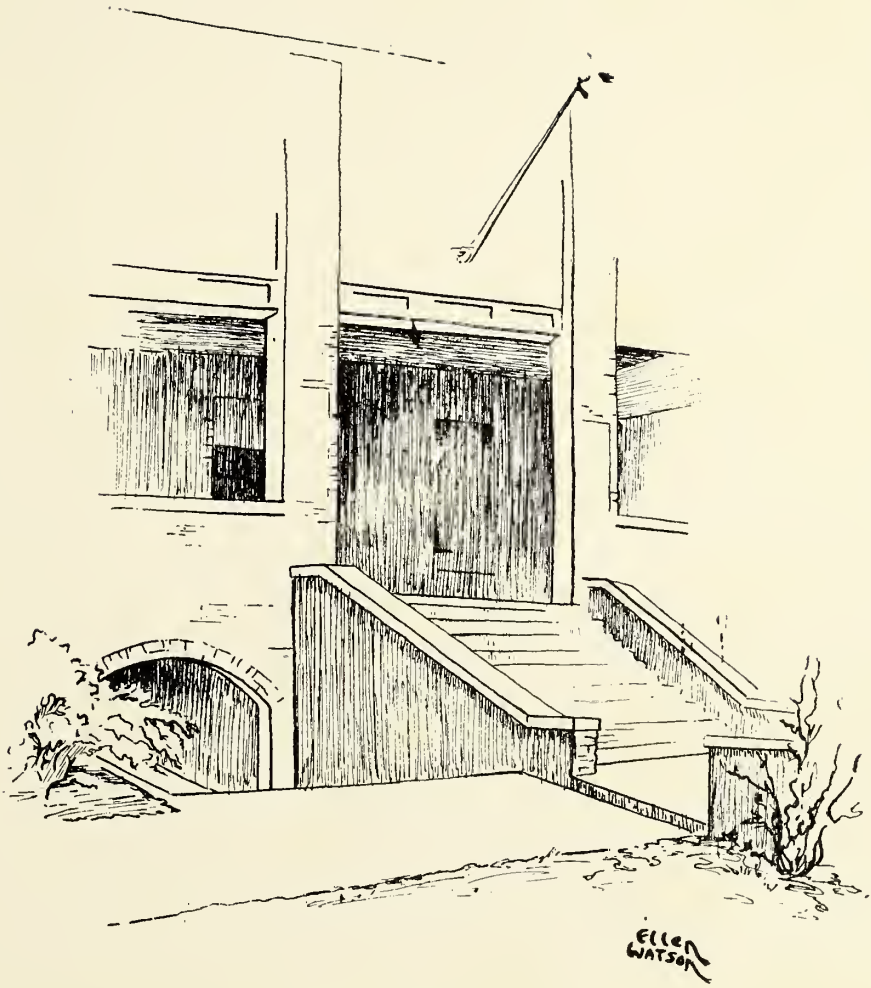

Although our hopes for the State Championship were shattered by the Southern trip, we can still feel truly in our hearts that we had the best team in the state during the season of 1930-1931. And next year there will be no dreams shattered, for that title is coming to Arkansas State College with the arrival of another season. In closing, we take off our hats to "Wild Bill" Hendrix, that "hot ziggety" captain, who's truly a marvel with a basketball.

The Student Mixer was the beginning of a year of activity of the Y. M. C. A. The organization alternates with the Y. W. C. The outstanding accomplishment of the year was the sending of Arkansas' only college delegate to the National Student-Faculty Conference at Detroit.

THE LOYALTY FRATERNITY

The Christmas holiday season was not entirely a vacation for the students of Arkansas State College. A drive was carried on by the students of the college in an effort to secure as many names of voters as possible, for presentation to the legislature in the interests of the school.

It was agreed by the chairmen of the various county groups that all students securing at least one hundred names would become members of the Arkansas State College Loyalty Fraternity. Urged on by the two-fold desire of working in the interests of the school and making the fraternity, the following students secured the required number of names:

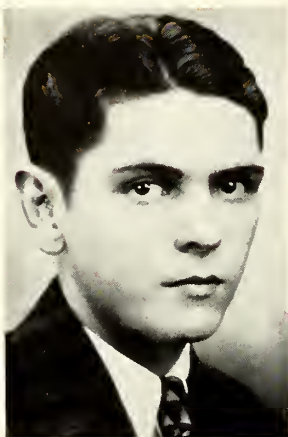

Alsey, Milton

THE YEARLING

VERNON MOCK

and for their assistance in every respect. I am grateful for the friendly associations which we have enjoyed during the year, and feel that this publication has been made possible only through our combined efforts.

And now, students, we submit the book to you. In the years to come, memories will return of the days spent in Arkansas State College; of your work, organizations, and activities; then, if this, the Yearling of 1931, enables you to live again those sunny hours, we have not worked in vain.

Sincerely,

Vernon Mock.

The 1931 Yearling is now in your hands. The year is almost over; our work is done.

In this edition of the yearbook we have introduced a number of changes from the make up of preceding yearbooks. We have endeavored to place the Yearling a step higher in the roll of college annuals, in keeping with the rapid growth of Arkansas State College. Accordingly, we have added the Military, Publication, and The Barnstormer sections to the book. Likewise, we have alphabetized the names of all students so as to provide easy reference. The Summer School appears in the Yearling for the first time, and track has been given a place as a major sport.

I wish to extend my thanks to the staff for their co-operation in fulfilling their assignments,

THE HERALD

MARY STACK
Editor-in-Chief

The State College Herald has completed another of its successful years, helped by an abundance of front page material. In fact, this year has been one that any editor should give thanks for.

Several changes have been made in the staff during the year, and many new features have appeared in the Herald. Athletics, society, and features have been the principal departments in which the new features have been introduced.

Formation of the new Senior College, the Navy Band, the Arkansas State College Loyalty Fraternity, the burning of the Administration Building, plans for reconstruction, and the appearance of Will Rogers, have offered an abundance of material of interest to the whole student body.

Several social events have also been enjoyed by the Herald staff during the year, making it more than just an organization for publishing the paper, and making the work of every member more pleasant.

As the school grows to its greatness, so also will the State College Herald, and we're looking forward to the time when we shall have a large weekly paper.

LITTLE BIG THREE PRESS ASSOCIATION

Alfred Knox, Arkansas State College.....President

Tom McGee, Magnolia A. & M. College.....Vice-President

Gladys Ross, Monticello A. & M. College.....Secretary

The Little Big Three was organized at the first annual convention of the Press Clubs of the three A. & M. Colleges, held at Monticello on April fourth and fifth, nineteen hundred and thirty. Its primary purpose was to establish a stronger union between the newly organized Press Clubs of the three schools.

Earl W. Brannon, director of research, organized the clubs as one of his first extra-curricular activities when he became associated with the schools. His purpose in organizing the clubs was to promote any journalistic ability which might be present in the students. In the first year of existence the ranks were open to any who felt interested in joining. However, at the present time, the clubs at Monticello and Magnolia have deemed it wise to limit their membership, keeping at all times a large waiting list.

Approximately thirty delegates, representing the three organizations, were present at the first convention. They were treated royally during their stay at Monticello, with a banquet and bridge social being given in their honor.

Business was transacted at a "round-table" discussion in which every member of the convention joined in expressing an opinion on the needs of the final organization. Mr. Brannon had charge of this meeting, and Mr. Moore, of the Monticello English department, summarized the work which the clubs had done during their first year of existence. At this meeting officers were elected, and Arkansas State College was selected for the 1931 convention.

The convention met here April twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth, and a definite scheme of a unit organization was devised. A dance and banquet were the social features of the 1931 convention.

Magnolia will be the meeting place for the Third Annual Convention of the Little Big Three Press Association in 1932.

MILITARY

TO THE SPIRIT OF YOUTH AND COURAGE

To Private Elvis Schaeffer of Battery C, 206th Coast Artillery, Arkansas National Guard, who met his death in the line of duty while encamped at Fort Barrancas, Florida, July 17, 1930.

He was always cheerful, friendly, and helpful; he enjoyed a well deserved popularity on our campus. His voice added charm to the Glee Club Chorus, and all his gifts were at the disposal of his beloved college. Such as he never die; to those who are to follow, his example will be a living inspiration.

Confident in the belief that this spirit of youthful friendliness, zeal, and courage may be instilled and perpetuated in the hearts of the students of Arkansas State College, we dedicate this section of the 1931 Yearling to the memory of Elvis Schaeffer.

A friend and buddy,

Jennings Wood.

IN MEMORIAM

COMMISSIONED OFFICERS

Harry E. Eldridge.....Captain
 James A. Puckett.....First Lieutenant
 Ralph C. Wisner.....Second Lieutenant

In Captain Harry E. Eldridge, Battery C possesses the finest commanding officer of any battery in the state. "Cap" had obtained his engineering degree before the World War, and he enlisted, taking an active part in the fighting. After the war, he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Reserve Corps. On October 19, 1923, Battery C was organized here, and "Cap" was commissioned Captain, with both state and federal rating, and was designated commanding officer of the battery, which position he has held throughout the existence of the organization.

Lieutenant Puckett's military service began with a year's service in the Coast Artillery of the regular army. Immediately upon receiving his discharge, he enrolled at Jonesboro A. & M., enlisting in Battery C at the same time. He rapidly rose to the position of first sergeant, and in 1924 was commissioned second lieutenant. On September 20, 1928, he received his present commission of first lieutenant.

Lieutenant Wisner's military career commenced in 1922, when he attended C.M.T.C. camp at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. He attended this camp for the four years following. In 1927 he enlisted in Company M, 125th Infantry, Michigan National Guard at Pontiac, Michigan, serving there for three years, and reaching the rank of first sergeant. He enlisted in Battery C in the summer of 1929, attending camp with the organization. On November 9th, 1929, he received his commission as second lieutenant.

THE SUMMER ENCAMPMENT

Florida. This word meant adventure, allurement, and new worlds for most of the members of the Arkansas National Guard, when the 206th Coast Artillery entrained for summer encampment at Fort Barrancas, near Pensacola, Florida. Battery C was at its full strength when it left its home station on July twelfth.

The trip was made by railroad, and required an overnight journey, Pensacola being reached about mid-day of the thirteenth. Midnight sessions chased away all thoughts of sleep, but after all, who needed sleep on that trip to the land of sand and sunshine?

Anti-aircraft target practice was started on the morning of the fourteenth, and the rookies all learned that we were really in earnest. But those rookies soon learned the fine points of range finding and firing, and by the end of camp, Battery C with twelve direct hits, had made the best record that was ever made at an encampment of the regiment.

Sunny sands and salty waters were great temptations to the men of the Battery, and swimming was the major recreational activity of the camp. Some of the men preferred spending their spare time sightseeing or kodaking, and a few of our members were able to make deep sea fishing trips.

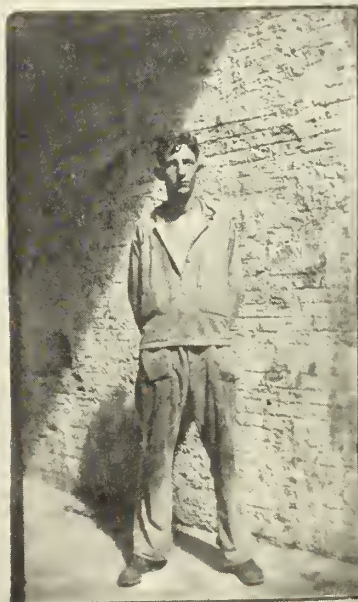

Two weeks were gone almost before anyone could realize it, and it was all but a memory of the past that will always be regarded by the men of the organization as one of the most enjoyable encampments ever spent by the Regiment.

Of course, there was the unfortunate death of one of the men of the Battery, Private Elvis Schaeffer, and in every activity the thoughts of the buddy who had gone brought a feeling of tenderness into every man's heart. Schaeffer was brought home from camp with all the honors due a soldier who had died in the line of duty.

Other enjoyable camps may be attended in the future by Battery C, but surely no man who made that memorable trip to Fort Barrancas can ever forget a single moment of the wonderful event.

Sunny skies.....
 Glaring sands.....
 Prunes and spuds....
 Ocean swims.....
 And those awful days

BATTERY, C, 206TH COAST ARTILLERY, ARKANSAS NATIONAL GUARD

THE BARNSTORMER

YEARLING HALL OF FAME

1930-1931 has seen many prominent people on the Arkansas State Campus. In order that a convenient index of these people might be preserved for posterity, the "Yearling" presents the following list, including the reasons for the selection of this group of twenty persons.

Accordingly we nominate:

1. Hugh Cantrell because he is too big to be overlooked; because he is business manager of this catalogue and would stop selling ads if he were left out; because he had to stop going out for football, as he ripped his football pants and there wasn't enough cloth in Jonesboro to make him another pair; because he wore his flaming flannels to Illinois.
2. John R. Halpin because of Betty Coed and the "College Widow"; because he was "papa" to about a dozen collegians; because of his unerring slide rule; because the Engineering Club had a wow of a hop.
3. Guy French because he was the biggest politician on the campus, but everyone loved him just the same; because of his cunningly devised letters and romantic love entanglements; because he looked like a highbrow Link's waiter in his band-leader's uniform; because he "makes" all the Aggie dances.
4. Florence Amick because if she ever did any work, no one has heard of it; because she moved more and worried less than any co ed in school; because she did look like an angel, but we all have our doubts; because she is a good scout and plenty popular.
5. Cap Eldridge because he is dean of men, registrar, and captain in the National Guard, and would assassinate the whole Yearling outfit if he weren't mentioned; ha, because he maneuvers all the formations at the football games; because he rushes all the co-eds when he chaperones a hop.
6. Luch Wood because he is always in love (with someone); because he's President of the Ag Club without being a football player; because he does love dormitory life, and is a whale of a good fellow.

7. Possum Thornton because he's the only known possum in college, and the only one of his kind in existence; because he's a rip snorting basketball man; because he's going to be a farmer when he gets out of school; because he's in love at last.

8. Ewel Dodson because he likes the ladies and doesn't care who knows it; because he is better known than any other one person at Arkansas State; because he's partial to blondes but still likes Chemistry; and finally, because he can talk more and say less than any other guy we know of.

9. Gladys Dawson because she smiles at all the boys; because she never could settle down to ONE man; because of her darling finger-waves and marcelles; because of her sudden bid for popularity.

10. Rat Schnee because he sold sixty dollars worth of football tickets; because he's Bill Matthew's cousin but can't draw a straight line; because he can catch a ride or make a date quicker than any other runt in Arkansas; because he brought back more souvenirs from the Illinois trip than anyone else.

11. Dr. Brown because of his efforts in chapel twice each week; because he has worked out a system by which the entire student body can rise at once; because he writes with green ink (ask the Engineers).

12. Julian Lark because he's a minister's son, and sixty-eight per cent of the members of "Who's Who in America" enjoy that distinction; because of his deep bass voice; because he looks as if he'd play a violin in the orchestra, and—he does.

13. Pug Winters because he's a good fellow and an all-round sportsman; because he follows Rose around; because he almost has his Mississippi accent worked up; because he's been at Arkansas State for seven years and is captain-elect of football.

14. Vernon Mock because he's been good all year so that no one would have any thing on him; because people just naturally elect him president of things; because he would throw this whole section in the waste basket if he didn't see his name in it.

15. Tex Plunkett because if you don't know him you know his daddy; because he rates only a C in freshman English, all reports to the contrary, notwithstanding; because he used to live in the Lone Star State, and don't forget it, littul Nell.

16. Olive Elizabeth Westbrooke because of her orange hair and black Ford; because if there isn't any trouble to get into, she'll make some; because she led the cheering at the training school, rah! rah!

17. Fishie Maywood because of his weighty love affairs; because he introduced a knockout of a dance step and always got his share of the floor; because of his many varied gifts of sweets, flowers, and jewelry to his chosen ones.

18. Evelyn Emerson because she's a "honey" in every sense of the word; because her brilliance astounded the entire commercial class; because she made a New Year's Resolution to pipe down and almost succeeded.

19. Ralph Wisner because he widely advertises the fact that his native haunt is Knobel; because he can twirl a baton at least half the time without dropping it; because he proves all his dubious statements by Gaylord.

20. Dean E. L. Whitsitt because of his flowing humor and cunningly devised chapel talks; because he can run off a contest before anyone else can begin to function; because his natural whistle outwhistles any piccolo that we have ever heard.

TRUTH OR POETRY?

There has been so much talk on the campus about Dutch-treat dates that questionnaires have been sent out to the leading students regarding this matter. Some of the results follow; they should settle the question.

"Dear Editor:

I think that co-eds should pay the total cost of the date for the privilege of being seen with an Arkansas State man. Dutch-treats would be too light on the women.

Sincerely yours,

J. B. Mitchell, '34."

"Dearest Editor:

Of course, time being so hard, it would be fine to help the boys out on the dating proposition, but as Dad has cut down my allowance I hardly see how I could support my boy friend in the manner to which he is accustomed. I say let the college men pay for everything but the chewing gum—I'll furnish that.

Love,

Helen Webb, '34."

"Dear Sir:

I'm very much in favor of a Dutch-treat, or I'll even pay all the expenses. When do you have an evening free?

Aileen Matthews, '33."

"Editor:

Your contest on Dutch dates is foolish. I'm more than willing to take the beautiful girls of Arkansas State anywhere they want to go—no extra charge. What do men have money for, anyhow?

Irately,

'Son' Wilson, '33."

FOR A GREATER ARKANSAS STATE IN 1932—WE WANT:

Harry Lee Adkins to buy a razor.

Son Wilson to get a new permanent.

Bill Matthews to buy an ambulance.

Helene Martin to find a guard for her Teke pin.

Harold Keller to fall in love just once more.

Dr. Merritt to use Runt McKay's megaphone.

Francis Chapman to prove all she says about Earle.

Rat Schnee to buy—anything.

Lucille London to buy a bus.

Ted Wayland to speak for his dates in advance.

Jack and Jill went up a hill
Upon a moonlight ride;
When Jack came back,
One eye was black—
His pal, you see, had lied.

ANSWER TO A
MAIDEN'S PRAYER

The  TRIPLETS

"GRANNY" KNOX

AGGIE'S OWN
WILL ROGERS

Paxton Hogan: "What happened to your new car, Halpin?"

John: "It joined a fraternity, pore thing."

Engineer's Dance

Agnes: "Isn't the floor slippery this evening, Carroll?"

Carroll: "No, I polished my shoes tonight, darn it."

H. E. E.: "I thought I told you not to park here. Why do you do it?"

Betty: "Because of my belief, sir."

Cap: "Nonsense! Whadaya mean, duck?"

Betty: "I believed you were in the office, cap."

Proud Parent: "How do I know you aren't marrying my daughter for my money?"

Bold Suitor: "We're both taking chances. How do I know you won't fail in a year or so?"

Imogene: "Gee, Nolan, that candy in the window makes my mouth water."

Nolan: "Well, here's a blotter, dear."

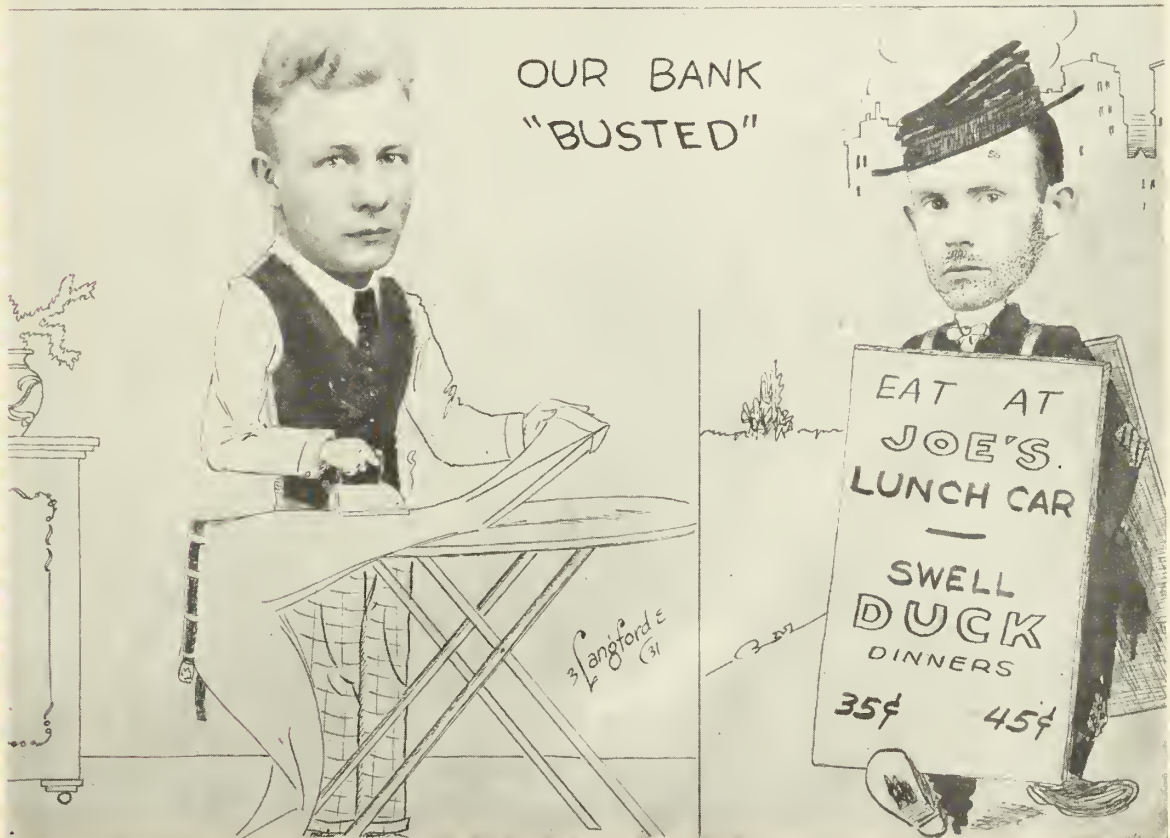

Rosa Lee: "I still don't believe that old story 'bout the absent-minded professor who hung up his socks and then discovered that he had forgotten to take 'em off."

Guy: "What is it that has a tail, four legs, and barks?"

Carlton: "A dog."

Guy: "Aw, somebody told you."

Marshall Kirk (singing): "Do-de-da-ump-bump!"

Billy: "That reminds me—I meant to buy a gun today."

Dr. Gallent: "This is the third time you've looked on Carlton's paper."

Kenneth: "Yes, sir; she doesn't write very plainly."

Harry: "Blast those insects! They're the biggest blankety blank pests in the world."

Helene: "Harry, dear, you forget that I am here."

"Will you love me always?" he sighed, clasping a jewelled bracelet on her wrist.

"I'll love you for the present," she murmured.—College Life.

Evelyn: "They are now waging a vigorous campaign against Malaria."

Mackie: "What have the Malarians been doing now?"

Hey! Campusology teaches us that:

Many an old flame is not so hot any more.

The old boy who once had a head for figures now has an eye for them.

In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love.

Drew Wyche: "I guess you've been out with worse looking fellows than I am."

(No answer.)

D. W.: "I say, I guess you've been out with worse looking fellows than I am, haven't you?"

Helen Mack: "I heard you before. I was just trying to think."

Benton Hogue possessed himself with great riches. He descended upon one of Memphis' biggest hotels. He determined to give the management evidence of his great wealth, so at breakfast said:

"Just bring me thirty dollars worth of bacon and eggs."

The waiter shook his head.

"Sorry, sir," he said sorrowfully, "we don't serve half portions."

Exit Benton Hogue.

Wayne: "Hey, Clovis, did you break all my engagements like I told you to."

Clovis: "Yep, Wayne, I did my best. But you know Marion didn't like my telling her, either. She said that you were going to marry her next June."

When Oscar Marcom went to the mind readers, she only charged him half price.

Fleas

I think that I shall never see
A poem clever as a flea—
A flea who burrows day and night,
Avoiding Eric's scratch and bite ;
A flea that clinches with its feet,
And chews off hunks of tender meat ;
A flea that may in season hatch
A batch of eggs in Eric's patch ;
Upon whose head, with every breath,
There hangs the chance of instant death ;
Poems are made by fools like me—
Takes more than fools to catch a flea.

"ODE TO A BANDMASTER"

What is it—enjoyed by just a few,
That makes me feel so awfully blue,
With notes that pierce me through and through?
The Band.

The bandmaster sweats and waves his baton,
He tries his best to urge them on,
But alas—the crowd has gone,
Leaving the band.

Then from the ether a foul note is borne,
It comes without question from Guy French's horn,
For no other wailing could sound so forlorn
In a Band.

To Guy and his efforts I offer this verse—
Though he gets hot and bothered when things become terse,
There's one consolation—he cannot play worse.
Oh!—That Band.

LET WE FORGET—

'Twas a week before Christmas,
How well I recall
The struggle that raged
Throughout Lewis Hall.

The floors were all wet,
The walls were a sight—
“Each man for himself”
Was the motto that night.

With buckets as weapons
We made an attack,
But the battle was over
'Ere the keeper came back.

Then, a month before Easter—
It happened so funny
That premature visit
Of old Easter bunny.

He came in the night,
But nobody knew
Why shoe polish smoldered
And Easter eggs flew.

And though it's all over,
I'll try till I'm dead
To get that foul joker
Who put eggs in my bed.

A Scotchman was engaged in an argument with the conductor on a street car. It seems the Scotchman believed the fare was five cents and the conductor insisted on a dime. After a long drawn argument, the conductor became disgusted, and, seizing the Scotchman's suit case, threw it off just as the car was passing over a bridge which crossed a small stream. The suit case landed with a loud splash. "Mon," screamed the Scotchman, "Isn't it enough you try to overcharge me without drowning my little boy?"
